

Grads go to highest bidders

Hardworking Provincials organizers honored

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce paid tribute at last week's meeting to the organizers of the recent Midget Girls Provincial Hockey Tournament, which Chamber President Glenn Harms said was "an incredible success. It did a lot for the community. It brought in big time business, and made a big impact on the bottom line for businesses. The stores were busy, the motels were full, the impact was a massive amount of capital coming into the community."

Presenting the Chamber's first Elk Point Community Builders award to the group, he told the representatives of the massive group of volunteers who organized the tournament and kept it running smoothly, "we are going to honor you as best we can" for volunteer efforts involving "so much work and so little return."

Doug Bassett thanked all the tournament's volunteers and said "everybody took a job and did it." He added that he had just received word that Elk Point Minor Ball will be hosting the Provincial Mosquito Baseball championships at the end of July.

President Harms said the Chamber plans to present more awards of excellence and merit in the future, including innovation awards and community builder awards, which will go to businesses, groups and individuals who have "added something special" to the community. "We have some people we really need to thank."

Harms added thanks to the Chamber's own volunteers for their efforts at the Provincials pancake breakfast, which fed 225 players, parents and fans, and got "really good comments."

The Chamber heard a brief report on the Community Organizations forum, which was deemed a success for bringing the groups together to tell where they stood. The general consensus was that help was needed in both getting funds and volunteers for fundraising. Harms said that although the volunteers "look and are tired, they remain strong and determined." Suggestions coming out of the meeting included a cash and car raffle, building a house and raffling it off, and coordinating events to maximize their effect.

Chamber members were invited to rank a series of revitalization suggestions in order of importance for discussion at the next meeting.

CHAMBER SAYS THANKS - Elk Point Chamber of Commerce honored the hard-working organizers of the Midget Girls Provincials tournament which brought a much needed boom to Elk Point's business community last month. Left to right are Minor Hockey treasurer Isabel Myshaniuk, tournament chair Sue Campbell, Chamber president Glenn Harms, Arena Operating Committee chair Doug Bassett and Elk Point Storm manager Gillian Cousins. Missing are Storm coach George Hahn and assistant coach Dave Cousins.

Seniors groups upset with changes to health program

By Joseline Gionet

Staff Writer

The elimination of the Extended Health Benefits program has some seniors angry and many are concerned about how they will cover the cost of basic denture and eye care.

"It's horrendous what the government is doing to seniors," says Paul Boisvert, provincial president of the Alberta Senior Citizens Sports and Recreation Association. "The province brags about how many seniors don't have to pay for benefits, well I wouldn't brag about the number of seniors in the province who are so far below the poverty line that the government pays for their benefits."

When the provincial budget was announced, Health and Wellness announced the end of the Extended Health Benefits program, a program that provided limited eye and dental coverage to seniors.

Instead, $9 million and some staff were sent to the Ministry of Seniors to develop a program to provide coverage for low-income seniors.

"It's those seniors with marginal incomes that this will be greatly impacting.

Those seniors that live on about $20,000 a year," says Boisvert.

Boisvert adds that with the rising costs of everything from utilities to Alberta Health Care payments seniors are feeling the squeeze because of their fixed income and the vast majority's inability to increase their income.

"You can't go to the boss and ask for a raise or work overtime to make ends meet," says Boisvert.

Boisvert says the health of seniors will suffer because they can't afford things like replacing dentures.

"The government is driving more and more people to the poverty line. I agree that we have to pay down the debt, but you have to look at the human factor. It shouldn't be done at all costs," says Boisvert.

The Alberta Council on Aging agrees.

"It's another cut. We don't know what the cutoff of income will be for the new program but the province only values its seniors as long as they stay quiet," says Neil Reimer, secretary/treasurer for the Alberta Council on Aging.

Reimer says 60 per cent of seniors in Alberta live on $18,000 a year or less and they are very guarded in what they will buy.

There is a special program called Special Needs Assistance for Seniors, it covers everything from furnace replacement to denture replacement if a senior qualifies for such help.

It isn't known when a new program will be in place to help offset costs of health care for low-income seniors in the province.

Currently, 12 per cent of Canadians are seniors. By the year 2031 a full 25 per cent of Canadians will be seniors.

Spring school activities gone in wake of labor dispute

Spring's usual hectic round of school-based extracurricular activities in Elk Point has been seriously curtailed by the unfortunate circumstances associated with the provincial labor dispute.

Elk Point Elementary School has cancelled a number of activities, including their after-school Drama

Club and its Fine Arts Evening, their traditional Education Week activities, all field trips which would normally extend past the regular school day, the Grade 5 and 6 Outdoor Education camps at Whitney Lake, and their Track and Field Day, for this school year.

Events which have already started at F. G. Miller Junior-Senior High School, including noon hour floor hockey intramurals and the long-anticipated French Exchange, will go ahead, while Track and Field competitions, other seasonal sports activities and participation in the RCMP Road Race have been cancelled.

Tri Muni going ahead with grant application

Mayor Lyle Frisby told last week's Chamber of Commerce meeting that the representatives of the towns of Elk Point and St. Paul and the County of St. Paul, who make up the Tri Muni steering committee have decided to apply for a $75,000 grant to study the needs of the three municipalities. Once the grant is approved, the committee will meet again to decide the parameters of the study.

Frisby, who feels this is a "no-lose situation," said it had been made clear to the committee that any economic development person subsequently hired as a result of the study would have to be acceptable to the Elk Point members of the group. "This is a three-way road," he noted, and all three municipalities should benefit equally.

Connie's Healing Garden will bloom again

By Angie Pinder
Review Contributor

Last year, I told the story of my sister Connie's fight against cancer. For the most part, we decided to share Connie's story because of Connie's strong wish to educate people about cancer in hopes that each of us would become more conscious of our own health. Connie's Healing Garden was her effort to create awareness and to raise funds for cancer research. This fundraiser was one of Connie's last wishes. From last year's Healing Garden campaign, $6218 was raised and donated to the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation - Alberta/ NWT Chapter. We continue to be very grateful for the donations and especially for all of those thoughtful messages written to Connie and our families during last year's campaign.

Connie passed away on August 10, 2001 after a long and difficult battle with cancer. Just as our family has been forever changed because of cancer, I know that many other people in our community have also been touched by cancer. For this reason, and because we want to acknowledge the bravery and strength of spirit of those who fought and continue to battle cancer, we have decided that Connie's Healing Garden should go on.

This year, we have decided to give you the option of donating to three different charities: the Canadian Breast Cancer Foundation -

Alberta/NWT Chapter, the Alberta Cancer Foundation - Cross Cancer Institute, and the Canadian Cancer Society, so that all forms of cancer can be brought to the forefront.

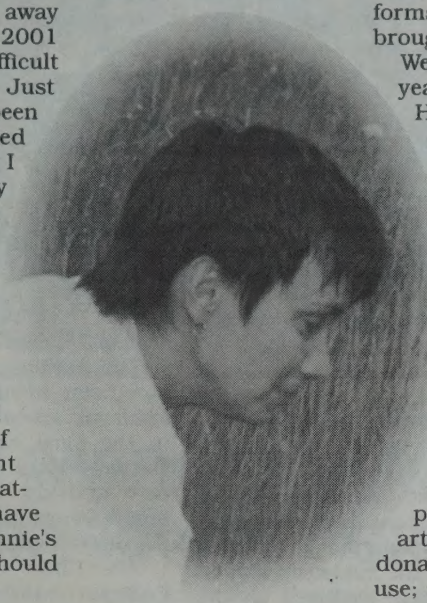

We plan to kick this year's Connie's Healing Garden campaign off April 11. You can expect to see the displays again at local businesses. This year, we will be selling sweet pea flower seeds, thanks to a generous donation from Mc Kenzie Seeds. The seed packages will be sold for $2 per package. With this article, you will find a donation form you can use; mail this form and your donation to the Community Lions of Elk Point.

In advance, I would again like to thank the Community Lions of Elk Point, all of the businesses that will be displaying the Healing Garden seeds, all of the friends and family that are helping to get this campaign off the ground for the second year, and especially all of you who will be purchasing the seeds and making a donation.

One of Connie's greatest fears when she found out that she was going to die was that she would be forgotten.

I always assured her that this would not happen, and by participating in this project, we are all proving we will never forget you, Connie. We dedicate our efforts this year to Connie's memory and also to all those who continue to fight and to those that have found peace in this past year. By seeing the flowers bloom, by smelling their sweet fragrance and by touching the soft petals, maybe the pain will be eased with each blossom and the spirit of all of those we have lost and loved so dearly will be present with us.

Lakeland faces funding shortfall

SMOKY LAKE - On March 19, 2002 the Alberta Government released highlights of its tabled Budget 2002.

Funding to Alberta Health and Wellness increased by 7.3% over the 2001-2002 forecast. Of the total funding to Alberta Health and Wellness, RHAs will receive an overall increase of 6.9%. Increases to Regional Health Authorities vary from 2% to 8.6%.

Lakeland Regional Health Authority

received an increase of 2.3%. "Increased costs of labor, drugs, medical/surgical supplies and the increased demand for services far exceed the amount received by our Region", said Pearl Babiuk, Chief Executive Officer. "Maintaining access to and the delivery of quality health services remains our top priority. However, Lakeland Regional Health Authority will not be able to continue at its current level of operations with the funding received."

The Board and management are currently in the process of developing a business plan that addresses funding deficiencies. Timelines are tight as the 2002-2005 Business Plan is due for submission to Alberta Health and Wellness on April 17, 2002.

Good news from FGM

Last year's Grade 12 diploma exam marks for F. G. Miller High School students may have been great, but this year's are even better.

Comparison of the averages in the January 2002 departmental exams in Pure Math 30, Math 33, Social Studies 30, Social Studies 33 and Biology 30 with those of the same exams last year show an increase from 68.8% to 72.4%. This great accomplishment shows that FGM's three-year plan emphasizing improved student achievement is working, with the school becoming known as an academic school.

Congratulations, Crusaders!

A sportless spring

Students in this and many other areas are facing a spring without sports and such other activities as field trips and school camping trips.

Back in the dark ages of one-roomed schools, and even in the days when these schools were consolidated into larger rural schools, school sports consisted of ball games at recesses and noon hours with the most of the student body taking their turn at the school's lone bat. If there was a young and energetic teacher, she or he might join in the game from time to time. Those too young for ball would play hopscotch or skip.

As school ponies were put out to pasture in favor of school buses, for a special treat perhaps once a year, the high school kids might go to visit another school for a ball game, or the junior and senior highs from all the schools in a division might meet in one place for a track meet, after practicing at noon hours and recesses and phys ed periods for a few weeks. The only thing close to a field trip, except perhaps for a Grade 12 trip to the Legislature, was the school picnic, when all the parents brought their children to a park or campground for an afternoon of fun and games.

Those activities were all those students expected, and there would not have been time for more - they had chores to do when they got home, if not before school as well, and there is no way their parents would have had time in the midst of spring work to pick them up or haul them to and from activities in the midst of spring fieldwork. Time and school buses waited for no youngster, so any activity had to take place in the confines of school hours.

Over the years, more and more activities have been added to the list of things that are school driven - plays, teas, open houses, sports competitions of all kinds, science fairs, field trips to places which may well be educational but are also costly for parents of the attendees, and camping trips which meant teachers were on duty 24 hours a day for several days, and that already busy parents must take their turn volunteering for kitchen duty.

It's gotten to the point where spring at school has been so busy that there's very little time for lessons and study, and with final exams looming in the near future, one would think that this would be a concern to parents and children alike. Most of us do not send our children to school to turn them into athletes or to prepare them for outdoor adventure, we send them there to learn the skills they need to pass the exams to make their way through the grades and get a high school diploma. There is time and opportunity after school and on weekends to play ball and soccer and to take part in all the other activities such as 4-H and Ukrainian Dancing, but even with Daylight Saving Time, there are only 24 hours in a day to fit in all this and learning too.

Perhaps a spring free of school-based extracurricular activities is just what these youngsters need to catch up on their studies and get ready to get the best marks ever.

MLA committee will redefine farming for taxation purposes

Municipal affairs has released the report of the MLA Farm Property Assessment Review Committee, which contains several recommendations on how to make Alberta's farm property assessment system more equitable and up-to-date. This is the final report of the MLA review committee and it recommends more changes to property assessment than ever before. The committee wants to make people understand why these changes are being made and receive feedback on this final report.

Over the next two months the committee will hold discussions with stakeholders on the recommendations before the government begins to implement them. Since the recommendations are already in the minister's hands, if you have feedback on the report, you are asked to write Minister Guy Boutilier with your comments.

The committee also recommended that it work together with the MLA Education Property Tax Review Committee to address issues related to the assessment and taxation of farm residences and the education property tax on farm land.

The MLA Farm Property Assessment Review Committee report and recommendations are available at my constituency office or on the Internet at: www.gov.ab.ca/ma/as/pdf/FarmReport02B&Wfinal.pdf

Keep child care subsidies with parents

The funding of child care has been brought into the forefront recently, especially in the local constituency. A clarification of how the child care subsidy is distributed might bring further light to the discussions.

The Child Care Subsidy Program assists low-income Alberta families with child care costs for their preschool children who are attending licensed day care centres or approved family day homes. Maximum subsidy amounts for a child 0-18 months in a day care is $475 per month, for a child 19 months and older at a day care it is $380. For day homes, the maximum subsidy amount is $300 per child for all ages. The subsidy amount provided to each family varies depending on net family income, family size and the number of hours of child care needed each month.

The parent(s) decide where they want to place their children and then the subsidies are paid directly to the child care agency on behalf of the parent. If the day care centre or family day home agency charges higher fees than parents get for subsidy, the parents are responsible for the remaining costs as well as any deposits and registration fees. I recognize that managing operating costs is a continuing challenge for these private child care facilities. However, I truly believe the funding should follow the child and the parents should be the ones who decide where their child should go. The government should not be deciding which child care facility is subsidized and by how much. The parents should be making the ultimate decision.

If you have any questions or comments on the farm property assessment report, child care or any other item, please contact my Constituency Office at 645-6999, 4434 -50th Ave., St. Paul, AB T0A 3A2. In Edmonton, you can reach me at 780-415-9578, 319 Legislature Building, Edmonton AB, T5K 2B6. Email: laclabiche.stpaul@assembly.ab.ca

The passively good people

Have you ever wondered about "the passively good people"? No... and probably not. The problem is we need to be aware of these kind of people. Let me tell you something about these kind of people. Passively good people are conservative citizens. They have no sympathy with rioters or lawlessness. They are ready to say that such conduct is outrageous, and incompatible with freedom, but further than that they do not go. Yes, I realize that this is a strong definition and the example may not apply to our small community of Elk Point.

But in a way, most of us in our small community may fall under that definition. We are trusting individuals to what happens in our community because we trust that the "others" are making the best decisions on our behalf. We become passive. We let people make decisions on our behalf. When we feel wrong decisions are made, we may or may not talk amongst ourselves about the wrong decisions. But it stops there as we feel we can't do anything about it.

WAIT A MINUTE! Some wrong decisions were recently made at our local Health Centre when rehabilitation staff made a decision to eliminate the outpatient services of the physiotherapist. Thus health service as offered by our local health centre was adversely affected. What deanna

EASTHOPE
from the FCSS desk

could we do about this decision? Apparently, in the thinking of some people, we were supposed to be good passive citizens of Elk Point and accept the decision made. After all, "other people" were making the best decision on everyone's behalf. It was such a "right" decision, that no one had to be told about it.

WAIT A MINUTE! FIRST of all, don't let me get away with labeling some people in our small community of Elk Point as "passively good citizens." For example, the Elk Point and District Interagency Health Committee is doing something about the decision that was made. They first met with the rehabilitation staff to hear the rationale about the decision made. The IHC then met with the local doctors to learn the effect of the decision. Now the IHC is learning the procedure to approach the "people" responsible who make the final decisions. The Minister of Health has received a letter and a request has been made to the Lakeland Regional Health Authority Board to make a presentation. Basically, the Interagency Health Committee is trying to stay focused and remember that "clear heads will prevail", (our Premier's main statement in times of solving problems).

What about future problems with the rest of our health care system and continuing care? Let us all attend tonight's meeting and find out... "Aging... It's Everyone's Future!" "It is well known that the aging population will present a challenge to the existing health care system and to communities striving to address the needs of citizens wishing to remain in their community as they age. The LRHA recognizes that it will be critical to work together with communities to meet these challenges. We would like to know your ideas and thoughts as we develop strategies for our 10-year continuing care plan." All of us need to let the Lakeland Regional Health Authority hear our thoughts so it will positively effect their planning before they make their final decisions. Let us not lose any more vital health services in our community. Let us attend tonight's meeting at the Elk Point Seniors Centre at 7 p.m. and become involved.

community NEWS*Swelling disease frustrating and potentially fatal

It's a hereditary disease very few people even know about, including those who suffer from it, but its characteristics are painful and in some cases life-threatening.

Hereditary Angioedema (HAE) and Acquired Angioedema (AAE) cause severe temporary episodes of swelling of the face, extremities, abdomen and airways, which can last for days. Abdominal attacks may lead to vomiting and painful spasms that may mimic intestinal obstruction. The swelling of the tongue and airways can be deadly if not quickly treated.

Attacks can occur without warning, and can be triggered by stress, anxiety, minor injury, viral illnesses, surgery, dental work or even normal body functions such as menstruation.

This is a rare blood disorder in which there is a deficiency of C1 inhibitor, a protein needed for a healthy immune system which acts to clear foreign organisms from the body. During an outbreak, the patient is given shots of the C1 inhibitor, human plasma that has been treated, to help stabilize the condition.

Elk Point area resident Peggy Adomaitis was first diagnosed with HAE in 1999, and at that time, doctors thought the only treatment was fresh frozen plasma, which couldn't be kept on hand at local hospitals because of its short shelf life. More recently, freeze-dried inhibitor has become available, which is mixed with sterile water and administered intravenously, which Mrs. Adomaitis can now do by herself, although she says the treatment "is an ordeal in itself." She adds that "here in Canada we are very lucky. Because it's a blood product, it's free. In the US, it would cost $1000 per treatment."

She also feels lucky to have discovered the source of the ailment that has troubled her for some time. "For about ten years, I only had the stomach attacks, extremity and facial swelling."

Doctors thought her problem was allergies. "When my throat and tongue started swelling, we had to start running." Numerous times, she was given a shot of anti-bee-sting serum at home and rushed to St. Paul by her husband for treatment. There she received steroids and antihistamines to take down the swelling, but on one such trip to the emergency room, a locum doctor was on hand who had seen this condition before and who suggested she see a hematologist. Only then did she find out the cause of the ongoing and frightening attacks. "I am one of the few people who were sent to a hematologist right off the bat. Others have been sent to immunologists."

Since finding out she has HAE, Mrs. Adomaitis has done considerable research on the disease via the Internet, and has several binders filled with information she has collected. She took her information to a family reunion, and "had no trouble finding people who needed it." The disease is hereditary, and a child has a 50% chance of having HAE if a parent has it. Looking back at her family history, she recalled "my grandmother and aunts had some of the same things happen. I was at one aunt's funeral and one of my cousins said he had 'something weird going on.' They had been treating him for pancreatic cancer." Mrs. Adomaitis was herself diagnosed with colon cancer, but when she underwent surgery, "there was no cancer there - it was just the HAE."

Acquired Angioedema has similar symptoms, and results from excess consumption of C1 inhibitor due to associated disease, or autoantibodies to C1 inhibitor, and usually occurs in people over 50 years of age.

Somewhere between one in 10,000 and one in 50,000 people have this disease, and in 1999, people affected by the C1 inhibitor deficiency found each other through an existing family home page on the Internet. Early last year, Canadian patients and families, communicating through e-mail, recognized a need to improve awareness about the disease. Through a united effort, they created the Canadian Hereditary and Acquired Angioedema Society, which is now a registered non-profit charitable organization, based in Claresholm, AB. Mrs. Adomaitis is on its board of directors.

Sponsors sought for ES STARS benefit golf tournament

By Sgt. Lyle Marianchuk
Tournament Chairman

Once again the organizing committee for the

Elk Point Emergency Services STARS benefit golf tournament will be canvassing the community of Elk Point, starting on April 10. The categories this year will be as follows: Platinum (cash donation of $1000 and up), Gold (cash donation of $300 and up), Silver (cash donation of $200 and up), Bronze (cash or prize donation of less than $200). We are also looking for items for the silent auction, door prizes and golf prizes.

The tournament will once again be a Texas Scramble format with a maximum of 90 golfers. Entry fee will again be $50, which will have to be paid prior to the tournament.

The first 18 paid gold sponsors (cash donation and entry fees) will be guaranteed a four person team in the tournament. That is, a sponsor who donates $300 cash and wishes to put a team in will be required to pay $300 plus $200 = $500. A single golfer will be added to each team. Organizing committees will begin approaching potential sponsors on April 10, however payment of the $500 will not be accepted until Monday, April 15. At that time, payment will have to be brought to the Elk Point RCMP Detachment. The first 18 paid teams will be guaranteed a team spot in the tournament! Anyone wishing to put a team in must attend the detachment on April 15, whether they have been approached by a committee member or not.

Committee members this year are: Lyle Frisby, Pat Demers, Nigel Lafrance, Fred Lambright, Jay McNeill, Sheldon Hynes and Lyle Marianchuk. If you have any questions or wish to donate to the STARS Golf Tournament, please contact them on or after April 10. Last year's tournament raised $16,000 for STARS so the organizing committee again would like to thank all sponsors from last year and potential sponsors for this year.

Remember, April 15 is an important date if you want to golf in the tournament this year. Hope to see you on the golf course on June 5.

Clear the track - here comes Zach! MacKinnon bound for the Alberta Cup

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

Every year, Hockey Alberta has what they call the "Alberta Cup". It's basically similar to a provincial tournament, but instead of each town entering, it consists of 8 teams made up from different zones across the province, and it's only for first year bantams. Each 14- (or depending on his birthday, some already 15-) year old player, registered with Hockey Alberta is sent an invitation for a try-out at a weekend zone camp. At the camp 12 to 15 evaluators evaluate the 160 or so players, and only 19 are selected. This year's camp for our Northeast zone was held in Vermilion two weekends ago.

Making the Northeast zone team this year is a guy that we all know, our very own "Clear the track, here come Zach" Zachary MacKinnon. Up until this year, Zach played his entire minor hockey in the Elk Point Minor Hockey system. This year Zach decided he needed the challenge, to play at a higher level of competition, and tried out for the AA team in St. Paul. Making this team is where his commitment started. Working hard in games and at practices, he has developed into a big solid left-winger, and contributed to the team finishing second in their league.

The Alberta Cup is one of the most precious tournaments around, if not the most, and for the Western Hockey League, a great spot to scout young talent. This year's Alberta Cup will be held on April 26th, 27th, and 28th in Lethbridge. Every WHL team will have scouts at this tournament looking for prospects.

Size is a big factor in the WHL, and we all know that with Zach's gene pool, he's going to grow, even if he is already 5'11 tall and 145 lbs, he only turned 15 last month. But size is not the only factor, you still have to have skating, shooting and stick handling skills, to go along with it, and anyone that has seen Zach play over the years, knows he has the tools of the trade. But having the size and the tools is still not enough, you need one more ingredient, you have to want it. Commitment, dedication, working out, practicing hard, and staying in shape. Zach shouldn't have any problem staying in shape over the summer. His parents Joe and Susan MacKinnon own the Green Acres Sod Farm where Zach works during the summer, and puts out, throwing 50 pound rolls of sod onto pallets and loading trucks.

Usually a few weeks after the Alberta Cup the WHL has its rookie draft, first year bantam aged players. After the player is drafted, they are listed on a protected list by the WHL team, and can no longer try out for other WHL teams, unless they are released. Now, these players still have two years before they can actually play in the WHL, and they still have to make the team, it's not a automatic thing, that just because you're drafted, that you will actually get to play, but a lot of their prospects do end up playing, and some of them eventually going on to the NHL. Dan Blackburn the New York Rangers rookie goalie is a perfect example. Dan played in the Alberta Cup in 1998; four years later he's playing for the New York Rangers. And did you know last Thursday night when he played against the Leafs, the Leafs outshot him 37 to 20, and the Ranger still won 4 to 2 with the rookie goalie in the net.

Now, don't get me wrong, it doesn't mean that if a kid doesn't make the Alberta Cup team that they won't get drafted or invited to a rookie tryout camp, because lots of kids from our town over the years have been to the WHL camps.

"Clear the track, Zach" You the Man! Good luck in the Alberta Cup, keep up the hard work and make us proud.

Elk Point to host Mosquito ball Provincials

Minor Ball registration
Saturday

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

The baseball season is fast approaching. I can't believe I said that! What's that white stuff outside? Welcome to Alberta. But, there is big news coming down the pipe this past week. Baseball Alberta has awarded Elk Point Minor Ball, the Mosquitoes Baseball Provincial Championship, on July 26, 27 and 28. That's players aged 10 and 11 years old, 8 teams from all over the province, coming here to invade our town.

Registration for Elk Point Minor Ball, will be this coming Saturday April 13th. From 10 a.m. until 1p.m. at the A.G. Ross Arena. This year's registration format should go much smoother, if you were registered last year and all the information is the same, such as address Alberta health care #, etc. just bring your cheque book, sign the form, and good bye. If it's you're a first time registering for baseball, it make take a little time to fill the form. That's next Saturday from 10 a.m. until 1p.m. at the A. G. Ross Arena. And if you can't make it, or need more information call Lavern Wilson at 724 3878, tell him you intentions and mail him your cheque.

And a big Happy Birthday going out today, to my old friend, an occasional sports writer himself, 18-year-old Brian Poitras. Brian has played for a lot of teams that I have been part of, he is naturally talented at every sport, and told me he wants to go to University to become a Phys Ed teacher. One thing, I do know, is that this kid is destined to succeed, trust me; he's such a smooth talker, that if he doesn't make it as a teacher, he really should become a life insurance salesman.

And now for our K.A. Campbell sports trivia, Barry Bonds started the first two games of the season with four bombs over the wall. Only one other major league player ever started the season with two homers in each of his first two games of the season. What's his name?

Sponsors bid for Klondike Days wagon tarps

The canvas auction for the 2002 Klondike Chuckwagon Derby was held last Thursday night, with the sponsorship for 36 wagon outfits selling for an average of $10,750.

Norm Cuthbertson

will be the highest paid teamster, his tarp selling to Royal Camp Services for $45,000, half as much again as his nearest rival, Jake Friesen, who garnered a bid of $30,000 from Morgan's Transfer. Tyler Helmig will run under EPCOR sponsorship, selling for $28,000, with Rick Fraser getting $26,000 from Kendal Pipeline and Oilfield Services, and Troy Dorchester selling his tarp to Vold, Jones and Vold Auctions for $22,000. Buddy Bensmiller will be carrying the Peak Manufacturing tarp, for a bid of $20,000 to wind up the top six wagons.

Farther down in the ranks were Kelly Sutherland at $9000, Kurt Bensmiller at $7500 and Rae Croteau Jr. in his debut at Klondike Days at $5500.

Eighty percent of the canvas sponsorship goes to the drivers, with the balance supporting the Klondike Chuckwagon Derby at Edmonton's 2002 Klondike Days.

TV journalist now making waves with gospel and country music

From the small screen to the stage, award-winning journalist Mark Mallett is making waves in the music industry. Mallett, who won Best Canadian Documentary in 1998 and was host, reporter and producer with CFRN-TV in Edmonton, will perform in Elk Point on April 20.

Mallett turned from a successful career in television to a full-time career in Christian music this past fall. "I like doing TV," says Mallett, "but I love music." Since releasing his debut album, Deliver Me From Me in December of 1999, Mallett has been on the receiving end of six nominations including Best Male Artist and Best Songwriter with the Alberta Recording Industry Association and Outstanding Contemporary Recording with the Prairie Music Awards. He has been touring steadily since the album's release, at times accompanied by his wife Lea who sings backup.

Bored by piano lessons, Mallett picked up his father's guitar at the age of nine and within a month had written his first tune. Thus began a passionate love for the guitar and a natural gift for songwriting.

Influenced by many style and genres of music, Mallett sings all his own material and will release his next album this spring. His first album is a reflection of his spiritual side, while the new album will focus on the emotional side, with love songs and real-life stories his audience will readily relate to. "So often after my concerts, people come up and share with me that they were touched by the stories in my 'life' tunes. And that's what it's all about: music that really moves people and gets them soul-searching."

Mallett is very aware of the challenges of balancing a music career and family life. "For the moment, this seems to be where God is leading me. All I know is I just have to do my part to be a good daddy and a loving husband ... and fit this music in between so we can all eat!"

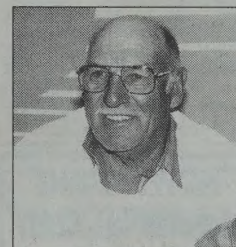

Mallett's show will be held at St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church in Elk Point on Saturday, April 20, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

For information on ticket sales, contact 724-3068.

Listen up! PERRI WALKER'S Birthday is on April 18!
